Okuboji temple in autumn leaves

The best time to see autumn leaves in Shikoku is around the end of November.

At Shikoku Sacred Site No. 88 Okuboji Temple, you can see such a wonderful view. Autumn leaves is a beautiful natural phenomenon seen in autumn in Japan, and refers to the leaves on trees turning red and orange. It is part of Japan's four seasons and is a popular place for tourists. There are many famous spots for autumn leaves, and you can enjoy beautiful scenery in autumn. It is a great opportunity for foreigners to experience Japan's nature and culture. When you visit Japan, be sure to enjoy the autumn leaves.
